The Autobiography of a Granada Cat: As told to Harley White They call me Mama-cat and I answer to it, so I suppose that is my name, though it wasn t always. I was born in Andalusia, southern Spain, in Granada, an area that is hot in summer and cold in winter. So begins the picaresque, picturesque tale, true in the telling by its feline protagonist. Her lodging had been the street, along with all its dangers and discomforts, in magical Granada, whose charms were not entirely lost on this resourceful feline, even when in the throes of her own troubles. She describes the old city on the hill, with its labyrinth of narrow winding lanes, often sinister in their twists and turns, the Albaicin s spectacular vistas and crumbling old-style Arabic abodes, full of tourists and passers-by, thieves and outcasts, bohemians, donkeys, dogs, etc. Most of these houses had balconies, now in disrepair, upon which we could enjoy peering down on the streets from above. Or perhaps, if in need of inspiration, we could gaze at the graceful Alhambra Palace, with the serene Sierra Nevada mountains behind. Many original photos and illustrations accompany the text, putting the reader into the picture as the yarn unfolds. One eventful day a US couple is adopted by her to share their home: From this day forward, I would be known as Mama-cat. (.) .my context was one of belonging. I might say that I began to enjoy novel feelings of security, pleasure, and, yes, happiness. I even started to purr, certainly an expression of the carefree demeanor that was becoming an attribute of my evolving house-cat personality. A worldly-wise versatile feline, Mama-cat is...
