

A Rural Boy's Tale of Progress: Life Lessons from My Parents (Paperback)

By Khwezi V Tiya

Createspace, United States, 2012. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Growing up the son of self-employed rural traders in a small village in the Pondoland district of Libode, Eastern Cape Province, South Africa, Khwezi V. Tiya lived his youth in apartheid South Africa without electricity, modern sanitation, or color television. He helped his father tend to the flock, took care of his responsibilities to house and home, and learned the lessons his parents taught him. He was not considered an exceptional person by any stretch of the imagination. This ordinary young boy from the grazing lands of the Eastern Cape, however, would go on to accomplish what many perceive as quite extraordinary. Khwezi's parents provided a well-balanced environment full of lessons and knowledge that prepared him for the rest of his life. And while not wealthy, they were able to supply their son with the opportunities he needed-Khwezi provided the rest. Going on to develop his career to senior levels of management and to study and work internationally, the author now reflects on the different ways lessons are experienced, assimilated, and used to build a life of...

Reviews

This book is definitely worth acquiring. I have gone through and so I am certain that I will likely to read through again again in the future. It's been printed in an exceptionally basic way in fact it is only after I finished reading this publication in which actually altered me, change the way in my opinion.
