EXTRACTS FROM THE DIARY OF OTTO WIDMANN NESTING HABITS OF THE PURPLE MARTIN Old Orchard, Mo. , January 24, 1890. There is certainly more to be said about birds than merely to describe the nests and eggs, and it is a real fact that the habits of our birds, even the commonest, are not too well known. For instance, do we not find in some of our best works that the Martin raises two broods in a season, or that it is said to raise even two or three broods in the southern states With a better knowledge of the habits of the bird such statements would not be possible, considering that the Martin does not commence nesting in Louisiana before April, although the first arrives in February. The time required for a successful rearing of a brood of Martins does not vary much from...
