If a patient remains in the hospital after the end of any month, any balance to the credit of such patients account would represent an Advance Payment. If a patient has left the hospital at the end of any month, any balance to the credit of such patients account would represent an Overpayment. In order to have a proper record for reference the Superintendents clerk at the end of each month should note in a book kept for that purpose a detailed list of and the amounts of Accounts Receivable, Advance Payments by Patients and Overpayments by Patients, as shown by the card ledger account cards, after these accounts have been balanced for the month. Overpayments by Patients are payments made by them for services or care, etc. , never rendered. As the Hospital offers to refund these overpayments to patients concerned, when they leave the Hospital, they are liable to be claimed by such patients at any time. Overpayments by Patients are carried as a liability of the Hospital by being shown as a part of cash received in payment of bills rendered patients on the credit side in Bill Account on the Superintendents Ledger. From time to time under authority of the proper officials of the Hospital a part of the amount standing to the credit of Bill Account, which represents overpayments, which have not been claimed for a long time...
